New website fills gap by helping French enthusiasts and French expatriates easily find products from France online

San Diego, CA, December 6, 2010 – Launching this week, BuyProductsFromFrance.com (<http://www.buyproductsfromfrance.com/>) is the one-of-a-kind bilingual reference website to find everything and anything French online. This new French / American community is designed to save its online visitors time, spotlighting the best and most popular products from France, so they don't have to spend hours on search engines and multiple websites looking for that wonderful foie gras, Beaujolais, or French gift they really want.

"I created this website after continuously struggling to find authentic French products on the web," says Milka Pejovic, Founder of BuyProductsFromFrance.com. "As a French expatriate who has been living in the USA for 17 years, I'm always looking for French products I can buy in the USA, but the "treasure hunt" feeling is very frustrating. I figured I wasn't the only one performing tedious online searches for products from France and something had to be done about it." "That's how BuyProductsFromFrance.com was born" Pejovic continues. "Surprisingly this is the only website of its kind and I can't believe nobody has taken the initiative to create it until now!"

Dedicated to serving a large audience of both French enthusiasts and French expatriates living in the USA, BuyProductsFromFrance.com is unique as its content is fully French / English bilingual and updated with new products and promotions several times a week. Product categories include French food and wine, French beauty products, French clothes and accessories, French movies, books and music, and topics on traveling to France. The "French Gifts" section features the opportunity for gift purchases in the US, as well as directly in France for friends and family who live there. The website even includes traditional French recipes and downloadable conversion charts between French and US measurements.
